

Bruce Sirak of Burlington Township (left) portrays Charles Smith Olden, a New Jersey governor during the Civil War, and Algernon Ward of Trenton depicts a member of the Sixth U.S. Colored Troops. Both participated in a Burlington event tracing military history.

Living timeline of war history

Burlington took a weekend "walk through history." During the military-history event, 250 reenactors from around the region brought to life major battles of wars our nation has fought. The festival and encampment, held Saturday and Sunday along the waterfront, featured historical figures and typical soldiers in conflicts ranging from the French and Indian War to the Vietnam War.

Inquirer photographs by Sarah J. Glover

Civil War reenactors Patrick Harding (left), a Confederate private, and Brian Szatkowski, a Union soldier, join in from North Jersey.